Maul Going To Washington

City's Sewerage Project To Be Urged On PWA

City Attorney Thomas Maul will leave this week for Washington to enlist the active support of Senator McAdoo, Senator Johnson and Congressman Harry L. Englebright, in support of the city's application before the Public Works Administration for assistance in the sewerage project for which the city voted recently $50,000 in bonds.

Mr. Maul was authorized to proceed to Washington at Monday night's meeting of the city council when the council learned that such a business mission could be combined with a trip Mr. Maul was planning to Ohio.

There, he will meet his daughter, Miss Betty, who will return with him to spend the summer here following a year at Dennison College.

Harry N. Jenks, sanitary engineer, who designed the city's proposed sewerage installation and who assisted in the preparation of the city's application for PWA assistance in the project, was in Placerville Monday and conferred with Mr. Maul and with members of the city council.

Mr. Jenks had lately been in com-

Savants Check "Man In Moon"

Today's Eclipse Of Sun Total In South Pacific Region

By HILLIER KREIGHBAUM
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U)—Scientists will have a chance to check during today's eclipse of the sun whether the play-of the skies, the moon, is back on a straight and narrow path again.

Astronomers have never been able to predict to the split second just where the moon will be although it is the nearest of all stellar bodies. Fifty 70 years ago, the moon was 17 seconds off its predicted course; today it is expected to be only two seconds wrong. Naval observatory experts who specialize in making these predictions, are not even sure that this error will be true for this longest eclipse in 12 centuries.

Astronomers have travelled to a desert South Seas island, to the land of the sun worshipping Incas, in Peru, and by boat to a path where the moon wipes out the sun's light. Their observations there are important practically because the solar system is our original clock and if it is wrong then our watches and clocks may have to be corrected, too.

The path of totality starts in the ocean north of Australia on Wednesday and extends across the Pacific and past the international date line until it reaches Peru, just before sunset Tuesday. It is an eclipse which begins tomorrow and ends today.

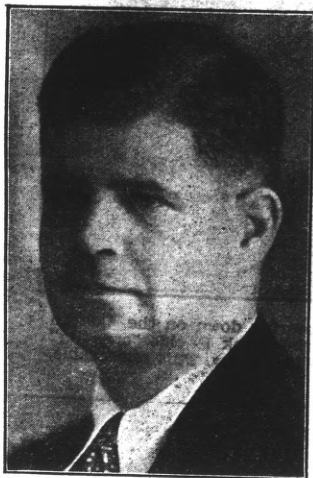

A partial eclipse is visible in the United States southwest of a line running approximately from Eureka, California, near Wichita Falls, Texas; Shreveport, La., Biloxi, Miss., Tampa and Palm Beach, Florida. The eclipse was seen in California shortly after 9 a. m. PST and progressively later across the country until it is visible in Florida at 4 p. m. CST.

Mr. Fricke was the husband of the late Louella M. Fricke and the father of Mrs. William Wall of Nimbus, and E. V. Fricke of Folsom.

He was a brother of J. R. Rowlands of San Francisco, and of the late W. P. Rowlands.

WINJE PLEADS GUILTY

Sentence Will Be Passed Saturday For Burglary

Aksel Winje, 22, stood in Superior Court Tuesday morning without counsel or other friend and answered "Guilty" to an information charging him with burglary.

He is charged with entering the place of James Balderston at Coloma last Christmas night, and stealing about $50.

Judge George H. Thompson set Saturday morning at 9 o'clock as the time for passing sentence upon the young man, who is not eligible to apply for probation owing to a prior conviction. The crime was determined by the court to be burglary in the second degree.

Winje appeared in court without an attorney. He sat alone. Others present were Judge Thompson, Clerk Arthur J. Koletzke, the District Attorney, (Turn to Page 3)

WHEATLAND TO CONTINUE SCHEDULE

According to league secretary A. G. Thurman of Colfax, the Wheatland ball team will complete its schedule of games and will not drop out of the circuit. As a result, the Roseville Tigers will meet Wheatland this Sunday on the former's home diamond. A change in management is being made and new players have been added to their line-up. The game scheduled with Folsom last Sunday was called off by mutual agreement of both managers. In cancelling the game the Hop Pickers did not forfeit the contest.

"G-Man" Agency For Canada

"Special Operators" Will Work Under Attorney General

MONTREAL (U)—The first Canadian investigation and law-enforcement agency patterned after the United States "G-Men" is being formed here.

It is a squad of "special operators" who will work under the jurisdiction of the Province's attorney general's department, in co-operation with, but independent of, the provincial police force.

The squad will be composed of experts in different fields of police work. Its main function will be to investigate reported rackets. The operatives also will co-operate with the provincial police in vice and gambling raids, investigate labor disputes and troubles, collect "independent" evidence in criminal trials, and obtain special information for use in drives on illegal businesses.

Each of the special operators will be put in charge of a certain field of investigation, for which his previous training best fits him. One man will have charge of all labor investigations, another vice and gambling, and another business rackets. Others will be held for special investigation into complaints which reach the department.

Authorities believe that the work of special operators will result in better prepared criminal cases being brought before the courts.

Jam Session At Hook Home

There was a jam session at the E. Ogden Hook home Saturday. But that's not the point of the story.

The point is that while Mrs. Hook was making jam—strawberry jam, if you must know—she had reached the stage of sealing the pint jars with wax when she noted that one of the jars seemed unusually full.

Examination revealed the dollar watch of her son, Claybourne, resting snugly within the jam, ticking away as usual,—so loud it could be heard despite being submerged.

This isn't an ad for the watch, but it was rescued and is still operating perfectly.

Hard Work Aid To Longevity

Pipe Smoking, Two Glasses Of Wine Daily Also Help

VIENNA (U)—Austria's Methusalem, Johann Postl, who expects to celebrate his 105th birthday soon, feels that he is beginning to get old.

"My eyes are not so good any more," he told a visitor at his farm at Puchberg, halfway up on the slopes of the Schneeberg. "I am afraid, I will soon have to wear glasses. While a couple of years ago, it meant nothing to me to walk over to my son's house four hours talking distance up high in the mountains, a walk of a quarter of an hour now wears me out. I distinctly feel the infirmities of old age approaching. But don't misunderstand me, young man; basically, I am sound enough."

Austria's oldest man is still in full possession of his mental faculties, although his memory, as far as recent years are concerned, has somewhat suffered, while he recalls with astonishing exactness events dating back 80 and more years.

Up to 96 years, he had worked in the fields himself. His prescription for longevity is: hard work and a frugal life, mitigated by a couple of pipes and a pint of wine daily and a double ration on Sundays.

A certificate filed with the county recorder on Tuesday records the birth June 6 of a daughter, Hazel M. Lasswell, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lasswell of Latrobe.

Mrs. Olive Willis is here from Coalinda visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Willis.

EARHART HALTS IN AFRICA

Heat Wave Adds To Hazards Of Flight Across Sahara

DAKAR, Senegal (U)—Amelia Earhart, American woman flyer, flew here today from St. Louis and studied the weather forecasts while mapping out her route across Africa on her round the world flight.

A severe heat wave that extended from Mid-Africa to Mid-Europe made flying conditions bad, especially over the eastern Sahara.

Officials here believed she would wait a day or two before she decided whether to continue direct across Africa, via Fort Lamy, crossing the French Sahara and the Niger Valley, to Khartoum in the Sudan, or follow the safer coastal route along the Mediterranean, using French landing fields as far as Algiers.

Miss Earhart landed at St. Louis yesterday after a 1900-mile flight across the South Atlantic from Natal, Brazil, in 13 hours 22 minutes. Though she is the third woman to fly the South Atlantic, she is the first to fly the more difficult west to east course.

CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION MEETS

The county committee and the community committeemen in the Agricultural Conservation Association met Tuesday morning at the Farm Advisor's office for a review of the 1937 conservation program in the consideration of betterments which might be suggested in mapping the program for 1938.

Similar meetings are scheduled to be held Wednesday at Ione at 10 o'clock in the morning and at San Andreas at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Secretary B. E. Haslam will attend these meetings.

Center chairman Al Bryan reports that the matter has been under consideration for some time and that at tonight's meeting representatives of the power company will be present to inform residents of the community concerning the proposed improvement.

Bodies Of 7 In Plane Sought

Ship Smashed Peak, Pieces Fell On Two Sides Of Mountain

ALPINE, Utah (U)—The flattened bulk of an airplane and scraps of metal, wood and cargo protruded from the snow drifts today, marking the vicinity where a Western Air Express plane crashed into a mountain December 15 and seven persons died.

The bodies had not been located. Possibly they were scattered the half mile down both sides of Lake Hardy Peak, where searchers found a man's shoe, a blue carpet, a parachute, a package of cigarettes, an instrument panel and chunks from the motor block.

The destruction was as complete as if the plane had been torn to pieces by an explosion. Apparently, though, it merely struck the mountain at full speed, about 20 feet from the peak. Part of it rolled down the north side and the rest hurdled the mountain top and dropped down a 300 foot cliff on the south side.

Bands of men moved up and down (Turn to Page 4)

Jean Harlow Rites Set

Service To Be Held On Wednesday From Forest Lawn

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Hundreds of persons, from movie fans in working clothes to stars who knew Jean Harlow on the Hollywood film lots, were turned away from Pierce Brothers Mortuary today as they sought a glimpse at the glamorous star who died yesterday.

A mortuary official said the funeral directors were under strict orders not to admit anyone to the bare room in which Miss Harlow's body awaits preparations for the funeral at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

The body will be taken from Pierce Brothers parlors to the Chapel of the Wee Kirk of the Heather at Forest Lawn cemetery shortly before the funeral tomorrow, only 200 of the star's nearest friends will be admitted to the tiny chapel. A guard of honor, selected from fellow workers at M. G. M., will form a cordon around the chapel to keep back sight-seers. They will be aided by members of the Los Angeles police department.

V. F. W. PICNIC JULY FOURTH ANNOUNCED

Plans are being made by members of Sierra Nevada Post No. 2680, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for their fourth annual picnic and barbecue, to be held July 4 at Fairplay-Aukum hall.

Posters, calling attention to the event, were printed recently by this office and are being displayed throughout the county.

In addition to the picnic and free barbecue, the committee promises something doing every minute and a day-long program of sports, games and races including dancing afternoon and evening to music by Red's Rhythm Rascals.

Joseph Aradoz To Be Buried Wednesday

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Stevens of Earlismart, and daughter, Mrs. Max Commons of Oakland and Mrs. Elizabeth Whitehead, also of Oakland, stopped over Monday evening with the former's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens. They continued Tuesday morning enroute to Iowa to spend some time visiting there.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McEMORE
 (United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (UP)—A gentleman of Minneapolis (I do not dare divulge his name for fear the squirrels in that city would have him stored for the winter within an hour) has written in for my opinion on the 1937 Davis Cup play.

He wants to know—honest, I'm telling you the truth—how I feel about the chances of the American squad which, as these lines are written, is bob-bobbing along on the high seas toward England.

The letter flattered me nearly to death, because it came at a time when I was almost convinced that the citizens of this country not only do not want my opinion, but they wouldn't "catch it," so to speak, in crowds. I have even heard of instances where entire families were quarantined because a newspaper containing my opinions had gotten into the house.

My Davis Cup opinion is that the United States team of Donald Budge, Betsy Grant, and Gene Mako will return to these shores the cup France lifted in the late 1920's. (Cries of "hear! hear!") My reason for such an opinion is this: Not for many, many years has international tennis had so few first class players. In all the world today there are but three players capable of standing alongside the giants of the days gone by. They are Budge, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, and Adrian Quist of Australia. And Quist does not enter in the Davis Cup picture this year because his side has already been eliminated. Eliminated, I might add, while he sat on the sidelines nursing a larynx full of flu germs.

Outside of these three, the field is strictly ordinary. The other boys are sterling youths, yes, but not genuine internationalists.

Today, but six teams remained in the running for the Davis Cup—those of the United States, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Belgium, and England. Three of those teams you can dismiss without a thought of the challenge round. The Czechs have only Roderich Menzel, and he is a better novelist and playwright than he is a tennis player. A few years ago Roderich gave promise of becoming the No. 1 singles player in the world, but all of a sudden he forgot how to transport his 220 pounds with decent celerity for five sets, and hit the skids.

Belgium and Yugoslavia have little more than a will to win, six bottles of liniment, and a change of flannel pants for each of their heroes. The schedules call for Germany to massacre Belgium, and then follow through with a mop-up of the Czech-Yugo winner. And

New U. S. Submarines Dive To 600 Feet, 55 In Crew

By ARTHUR H. SUVERKRUP

United Press Staff Correspondent
 SAN DIEGO (UP)—Submarines, capable of diving to a depth of 600 feet with safety—far deeper than any other such craft ever constructed—have given the U. S. Navy the most deadly undersea fighters in the world, it is believed here.

A newly developed, highly resistant metal makes possible the greater diving depth of the new craft, and at the same time allows construction of submarines considerably smaller in actual size but decidedly more effective.

These facts were revealed here when the U. S. S. Tarpon, newest member of the navy's submarine force docked here, to join the flotilla of grim-looking, ebony hued fighters.

Heretofore no submarine has been capable of descending to a depth of much more than 300 or 400 feet with safety. Although the Tarpon and sister ships, now under construction, or undergoing final tests, never have descended to a 600-foot depth officers and men aboard the craft are confident they could withstand such a dive "if necessity required."

A crew of 50 men and five officers operate the Tarpon. Numerous newly developed automatic controls make the reduction in personnel possible, according to Lieut. J. O'Shea, engineering officer of the submarine. Details of the new metal as well as the controls are closely guarded navy secrets.

Smaller size has not made the Tarpon prey to heavy seas, and "she's as stable as an ocean liner," Lieut. O'Shea said, in commenting of the cruising ability of the craft, which recently completed the long voyage from the east coast alone.

Six other submarines, of the Tarpon class, now are nearing completion—the Perch, Plunger, Pickerel, Pompano, Polack and Permit. Another six will be completed during the fiscal year starting July 1—the Salmon, Seal, Skipjack, Snapper, Stingray and Sturgeon.

there isn't even an outside chance that Germany won't follow schedule.

So, the only three countries that matter are America, Germany, and England. All of the grade-A tennis minds agree that whoever gets to England in the challenge round will take the cup. The Britishers plan to use Bunny Austin and Charlie Hare in the singles, and Pat Hughes and C. D. R. (or is it R. C. D.) Tuckey in doubles. Hare is a youngster, and not a very capable one at that, and Hughes and Tuckey are strictly a so-so team. Any team that will lob Hughes and Tuckey will beat them, because neither can hit a lob, even on the second bounce.

That leaves it up to Germany and our dear fellows. And my guess is that we'll lose but one match to the Nazis—the one in which Von Cramm opposes Grant.

Reich Gains As Air Power

Goering Tops First Goal; Opens More Ambitious Program

By WALTER WILKE

United Press Staff Correspondent
 BERLIN (UP)—When Hermann Goering, World War ace, rode to authority with the Nazi party in 1933, he had grandiose ideas for Germany's air forces. Today Goering's early program is achieved, and further plans for the future are well on the way to realization.

Three years ago Goering let the German people and the world know that huge sums were being spent for aviation by frankly warning that more money would be needed later on.

Colonel-General Goering, Premier of Prussia and Reichminister for Aviation, and his assistants knew what they wanted, and they set about to get it. They laid out new airports. They constructed planes. They stationed sections of the military fleet at strategic points throughout the country. They trained fliers. They encouraged commercial aviation. They interested the youth in flying. They tried to make the nation air-conscious.

Adolf Hitler once said, "Germany must become a nation of fliers." Goering has made carrying out of that order his personal task.

Agriculture has felt the pinch of military necessity in Goering's program. Crop-producing fields have transformed into landing fields. Official statistics show that in 1935 German agriculture provided 467,000 hectares of land for air fields and barracks. In 1936, Goering demanded an additional 80,000 hectares for similar purposes.

One of the greatest problems facing Goering was the training of fliers. This is how he solved it: Each of the early instructors, of which there were few, took five students in charge. After each student had completed 100 hours in the air, he in turn became an instructor for ground training, with five more students under his supervision.

Shrubs Take On Human Shape

Georgia Gardnener
Makes Hobby Of Trimming Hedges

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—D. A. Pittman, who grows shrubbery in the shapes of men, women and beasts, complained today because a hit-run driver broke Mrs. Noah's back, an elephant turned into the Democratic donkey and President Roosevelt's likeness has changed.

Pittman started his garden 12 years ago. Since then automobile accidents, storms, moths, freezing weather, insects, disease and even malnutrition have maimed and crippled his silent people and the animals.

When he started the garden he planned to reproduce Noah's ark, with the animals coming out two by two. His double garage and coal shed were quickly converted into a realistic ark, and he molded, twisted and trimmed bushes of privet hedge to grow in the shapes of animals.

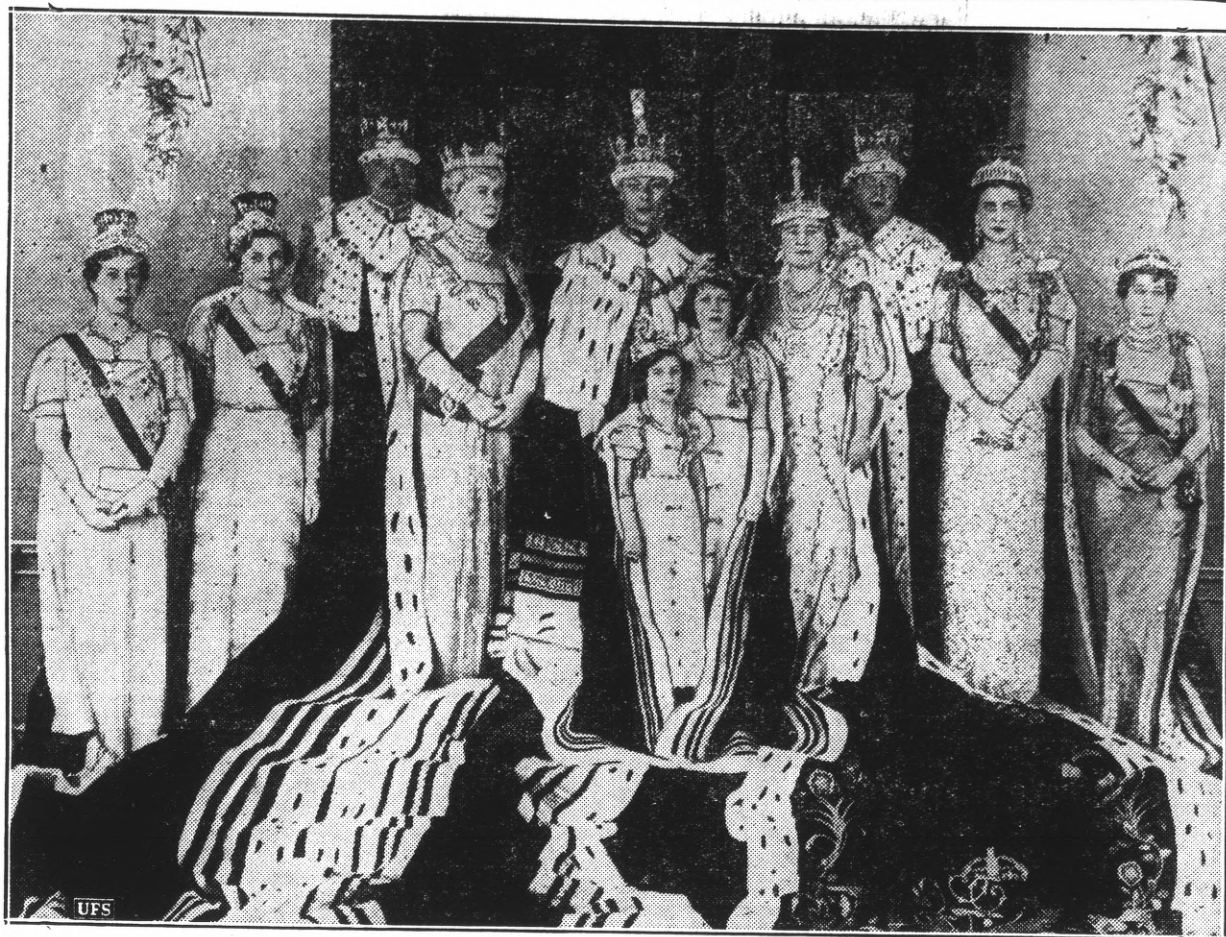

But as time went on Pittman found that some of the animals died or were killed in accidents, while others had their species changed. And he admits he became so interested he began to fashion things that Noah never heard of.

The most disastrous accident happened to Mrs. Noah, who guarded the door to the garage. A hit-run driver struck her and broke her back in two. Pittman suspects that his son, Alan, was the driver.

Once In a Generation Is This Picture Taken

ROYAL FAMILY IN REGAL ROBES—Because the occasion is rare when state crowns and royal robes are worn, here is a picture of Great Britain's royal family that, ordinarily, could be taken only once in a generation. That occasion in this instance was after the crowning of King George and Queen Elizabeth. The members of the House of Windsor shown here are, left to right: The Princess Royal, Elizabeth; the Duke of Kent; the Queen of Norway, the former Princess Maud, third daughter of the late King Edward VII. In front are the Princesses Margaret Rose, left, and Elizabeth. The Duke of Windsor was absent.

1908 "Sunday Suit" Still In Service

BEEDEVILLE, Ark. (UP)—A single suit and a few pair of overalls compose W. H. Curry's "lifetime" wardrobe.

The Jackson County farmer wears the "Sunday" suit only on special occasions like his 69th birthday recently. The suit is "just as good as the day I bought it," Curry said.

Changes in style do not bother Curry. Upon the few gala occasions in his life, he puts on the suit—purchased in 1908—and is "dressed up for the best."

Birthdays and funerals are the main events which Curry thinks warrant his wearing the suit.

U. S. Paris Embassy Suffers For Lack Of Glassware

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A crisis in diplomatic glassware (and crisis is the word!) indicated today that the American ambassador to France soon may be forced, blushing, to serve his official guests champagne—in paper cups!

Or they'll have to drink it direct from the bottle, like beer! boy! William C. Bullitt, the ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary in Paris, doesn't even have any crystal bowls in which to wash the gravy off his finger tips. He's got no water glasses, no wine glasses, no ice cream dishes, no nothing.

He wrote the state department last month, it developed, saying his embassy was out of table glassware and please to rush a shipment. He specified dainty goblets and tumblers, with long slender stems, a musical tinkle when tapped, and the great seal of the United States engraved on their sides. He asked, in fact, for the same kind of splendid glassware the state department has furnished embassies these many years, except to those where the servants are careless.

Bullitt's order consisted of four dozen sets of glassware, with seven separate pieces in each set, at a cost of 98 cents per each for goblets and a little less for the other smaller sizes.

The state department promptly relayed its order to one of the biggest glassware companies in America. Price was no object. The department needed glasses in a hurry, to uphold the reputation of this government's Ambassador E. and P. in Paris.

Back came no glasses packed in straw, but a letter from the glass company, saying it was sorry, but it could not fill the state department's requisition. Here's where the crisis came in, in the words of the glass company:

"The reciprocal tariff agreements (which the department of state, itself, engineered) have so reduced the sales of fine glassware that we have withdrawn from their manufacture."

Wowie!

The department called in its trade experts, who denied they'd made any agreements with any country that had ruined the American business in de luxe glassware. They said the single agreement affecting glass was entered into with Sweden in 1930 and that it lowered the tariffs only on decorative glass objects, retailing at from $25 to $50 each.

There was something mighty funny in connection with the table glass situation. The state department wrote the glass company, adding:

"We suggest further research (on your part) and hope you may see your way clear to accept this order."

That's where the crisis stands now. Ambassador Bullitt still hasn't got his glasses and he can't buy any in Paris, because of regulations which say that all embassy furnishings must be purchased in the United States. What makes the problem knottier still is the fact that only this one company makes the kind of glasses that Bullitt wants.

If he'd take the kind that ambassadors use in nations where servants are hard on the glassware, everything would be alright. There is a plentiful supply of this. It is heavy, like beer mugs, with short thick stems, and virtually unbreakable. The state department furnishes this wherever embassy servants are prone to smash the goblets of paper thin crystal.

It isn't good enough for Paris, though, and Ambassador Bullitt will have none of it. He wants fancy glass or nothing.

Okay, ambassador, us home folks are doing our best, but you see how it is, and would a shipment of paper cups, with an eagle stamped on 'em in blue, be any help, until, as, and is?

CRYSTAL GAZING AIDS PROGRESS IN CHEMISTRY

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—Future great strides in chemistry are predicted by Dr. John W. Gruner, University of Minnesota, as a result of scientific "crystal gazing."

Dr. Gruner, specialist in crystallography, reports that only in the past 10 years have chemists come to realize the importance of the structure of atoms and studied their makeup sufficiently to make definite forward steps.

Hardness, for instance, he explained, is traceable to small atoms of relatively high valence, or power to attract other atoms. The smaller the atoms and the higher their valence, the harder the substance.

It is possible, he suggested, that future studies will result in practical methods of synthesizing such substances giving new chemical products.

To study the structure of the atoms, Dr. Gruner uses a "camera" which takes pictures of rays reflected from atoms of the substances being studied. The rays are monochromatic X-rays, and the particles on which they are projected are as fine as present technical methods can produce. The reflected rays are used to make photographs which can be studied to determine the atomic structure just as spectroscopic images are studied.

Bodies Of 7 In Plane Sought

the 10,650 peak, removing the long delayed mail cargo and bringing up equipment to continue the search and haul away the dead. It is a three hour hike from the searchers' camp, 9,000 feet up the mountainside, to the peak where the wreckage lies, and as long a trip to the settlements below. At the peak, men have to lower one another on ropes down the crevices of the glaciers.

The wreckage was located Sunday, nearly six months after the plane disappeared on an eastward flight from Los Angeles.

Postal Inspector M. G. Wenger led a party of 26 men to the scene Monday and sent 10 of them back with mail that had been picked up along the half mile trail of wreckage. The snow is from 25 to 75 feet deep, and the uncovering and removal of wreckage was a job of several days. The main bulk of the plane had not been thoroughly explored.

Until today it was expected that the suit would not be reached for weeks. Now information is that it will be up this week—probably Thursday—and that there would be but a brief hearing, ending in the issuance of an agreed statement.

Preliminary hearing for Joe Rosenberg and J. H. Murphy, San Francisco brokers, charged with violation of the corporate securities act, was continued Tuesday before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis. No date for the hearing was set.

The men arrested about two weeks ago and subsequently released on bail of $5,000 each, are alleged to have dealt in Oklahoma oil stocks for which they had no permit to do business in the state.

The charge arose out of a stock "trade" with Leo and Kathleen Flynn, of Georgetown.
